Aldersgate Food Services Explained...

Allergen Statement

Aldersgate Food Service locations contain most common allergens frequently in contact with food. Since allergens are present in our facilities, cross-contact can easily occur. We cannot guarantee any item to be "allergen free" as it relates to prepared menu items. We suggest that you inform the Food Service "Person in Charge" at your meal time and inquire of any allergens prior to partaking of the menu item.

Peanuts or Nuts

Peanuts and nuts are found and used in our facility. If there are known severe allergies requiring Epi-pens or medical attention, we will do our best to abstain from setting out products that contain any kind of nuts or peanuts during the duration of the guest groups stay. It is impossible to guarantee that any menu item will be completely free of nuts or nut allergens, or manufactured in a nut-free facility.

Shellfish

Aldersgate Food Service occasionally utilizes and serves shellfish and seafood proteins. These products are typically labeled as to their ingredients. Shellfish and seafood allergenic protein may be on equipment surfaces and come in contact via unforeseen cross-contamination.

Soybean Oil

Most of our grilling oils, salad dressing, and mayonnaise-based products contain soybean oils. Soy products and soybean oil may be on equipment surfaces and come in contact via unforeseen cross-contamination. Some products used may have soybean oil and soy lecithin, even if products are not labeled as such.

Gluten Sensitive

Gluten can be found in many Aldersgate menu items, and is served on our buffet lines on a regular basis. Aldersgate Food Service has an active bakery, and all items within our facilities can easily be cross-contacted during production and preparation. Although we make good effort to guard our guests' health and well being, gluten may be on equipment surfaces and come in contact via unforeseen cross-contamination at any time during the production or serving process.
